

Cinderella's Evil Stepfamily Intervention

(Cinderella, now a princess, decides to hold an intervention for her stepfamily to finally change their ways!)

Characters:

- Cinderella – Now a princess, but still kind-hearted.
- Drizella – One of the stepsisters, dramatic.
- Anastasia – The other stepsister, a little clueless.

Setting: The royal castle. Cinderella has invited her stepsisters to tea.

Cinderella: (Sweetly) Welcome, Drizella and Anastasia! I'm so happy you could come.

Drizella: (Suspicious) Okay, what's the catch? Are you gonna turn us into pumpkins?

Anastasia: Ooooh! I hope I'm a cute pumpkin!

Cinderella: No, no, no! I brought you here because... well, I think it's time we talk about some things.

Drizella: (Crossing arms) Like how you magically got a prince and we got... nothing?

Cinderella: No. (Pauses) Like how you were totally mean to me when I lived with you.

Anastasia: (Thinking) Ohhh, yeah. That was kinda bad.

Drizella: (Shrugs) Okay, so we weren't the nicest.

Cinderella: (Hands them tea) You locked me in my room. You made me clean everything. You stole my breakfast twice!

Drizella: In my defense, I was very hungry.

Cinderella: (Shaking head) Look, I'm not here to punish you. I just think... maybe you'd be happier if you were nicer to people. Like, have you ever just tried saying something kind?

Anastasia: (Pause) ...Like what?

Cinderella: Like... "Your hair looks nice!"

Drizella: (Thinking, then turning to Anastasia) Anastasia... your hair looks... less like a bird's nest than usual.

Anastasia: (Gasps) That's the nicest thing you've ever said to me!

Cinderella: (Encouraging) See? It's not that hard!

Drizella: Hmmm... maybe being nice does feel kinda... okay?

Cinderella: That's the spirit! Now, let's try another one—this time, without an insult in it!

(The sisters look at each other, then take a deep breath as the scene ends.)
